

Welcome to Estia Health Willoughby, our aged care home located on Sydney's North Shore, New South Wales

Estia Health Willoughby is an elegant home with art-deco styling, sweeping verandas and landscaped gardens. Set in a leafy suburb on Sydney's North Shore, the home has a bus stop at the door and is close to the station, services and shops of nearby Chatswood.

The experienced clinicians, carers and hospitality teams look after all aspects of a resident's care, including clinical, social and overall wellbeing, and offer palliative care services, which can be accessed for short-term respite care or a longer stay. The home's Memory Support Unit provides a safe environment for residents requiring additional support.

Rooms are either single or companion, for couples who wish to share, and many have views of the city, gardens or courtyards. The lifestyle program is tailored around residents' interests and hobbies, and the home is regularly visited by school children who join in activities and entertainment. There is an onsite hairdressing salon for pampering, a well-stocked library and a stylish private dining room that can be booked for resident and family celebrations and special events.
